

Lesson Objectives

The objectives of this comprehension lesson are as follows:

- To teach a third grade comprehension lesson which would include the following skills components:
 - Metacognitive modeling of Before, During and After reading strategies that good readers use for comprehension, fluency and accuracy.
 - Metacognitive modeling of the comprehension skill of asking questions
 - Explore how personification is used in fiction
 - Build vocabulary through reading and listening
 - Help students recognize text-to-text connections
 - Help students expand comprehension by analyzing, interpreting and synthesizing information and ideas
- To demonstrate strategies for involving and engaging all students